Furnishing Is What Turns a House Into a 5-Star Stay

Guests don't book a floor plan — they book a feeling. The right furniture, sized and styled for how guests actually use a short-term rental, is what turns a good listing into a fully booked one. This guide covers the complete room-by-room item list we use to furnish an STR, plus how we manage ordering, receiving, and assembly scheduling so you never have to track a single delivery yourself.

Bottom line: Furnishing an STR is different from furnishing a home you live in — every piece needs to survive frequent turnover, suit a wide range of guests, and photograph well. We build every list with that lens.

The Furnishing Process

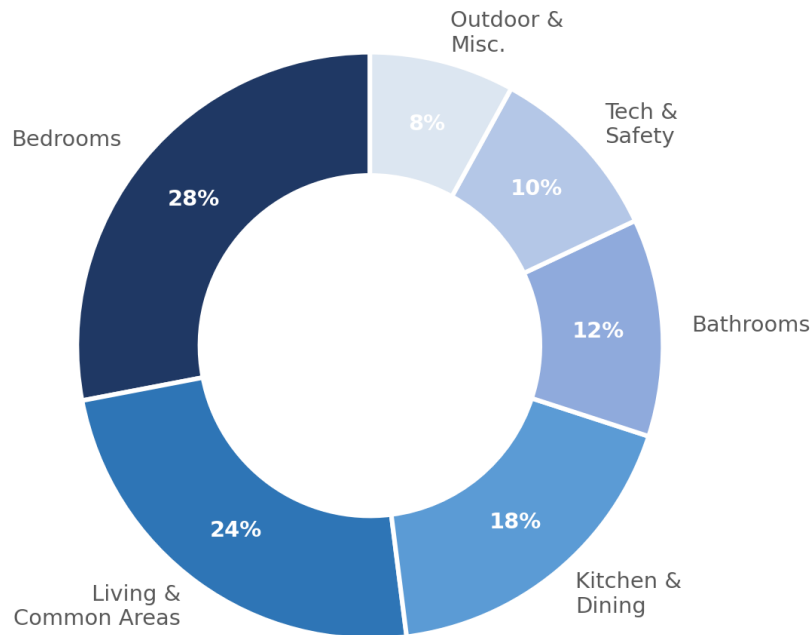

Five stages, run on a tight timeline so your launch date never slips.

Where the Budget Goes

A useful starting allocation across categories — we adjust per property based on guest capacity and market positioning.

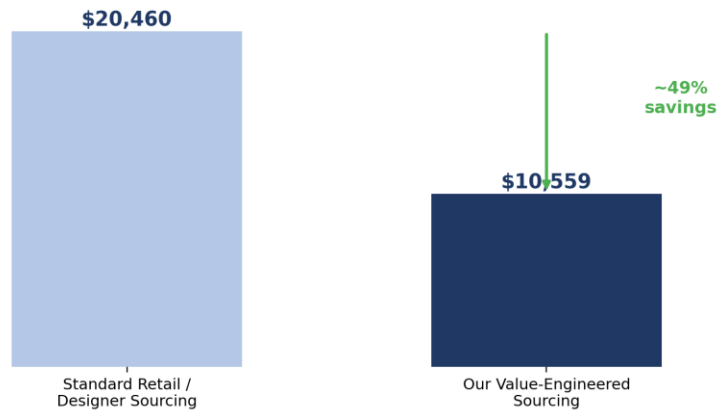

Typical Furnishing Budget Allocation

Two Ways to Source the Same Property

Every item on our list can be sourced two ways: standard retail/designer pricing, or our value-engineered sourcing — the same look and durability, at a meaningfully lower cost. We use our sourcing relationships and bulk purchasing to hit the second column on every project, without compromising on guest experience or durability.

Illustrative Total Budget: 3BR/2BA, Sleeps 8

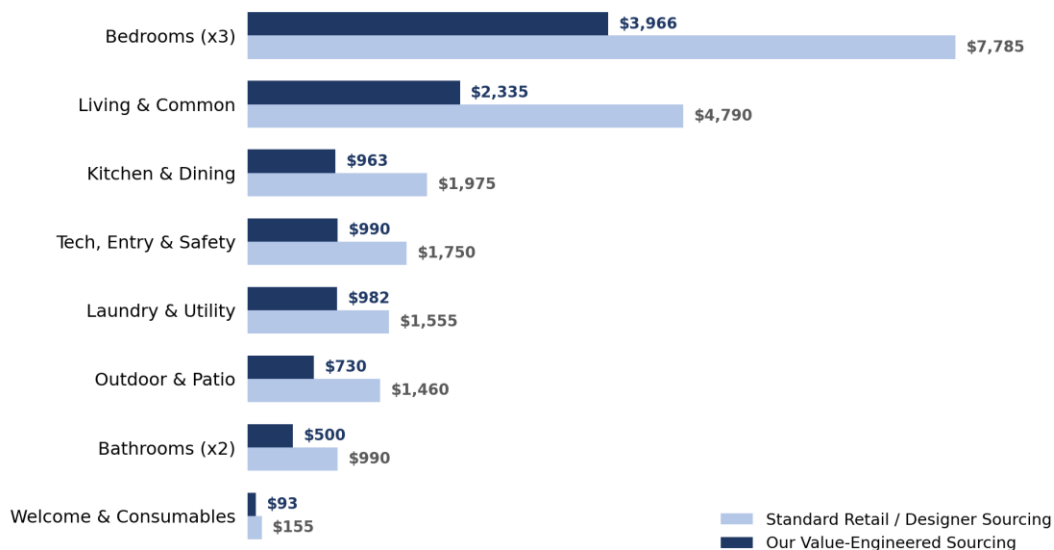

How this works: We don't cut corners on what guests actually feel — mattress quality, bedding, and anything safety-related stay at a quality bar regardless of sourcing. The savings come from smarter sourcing on items where brand name doesn't change the guest experience.

Cost Comparison by Category

The chart below shows the same illustrative 3BR/2BA, sleeps-8 property priced both ways, category by category.

Furnishing Cost by Category: Two Sourcing Approaches

The Complete Room-by-Room Item List & Budget

This is the full list we work from on every furnishing project, with itemized cost for both sourcing approaches. Quantities scale with guest capacity and bedroom count — we finalize an exact list and budget with you before ordering.

Actual totals depend on property size, guest capacity, and finish level.

Ordering, Receiving & Assembly — How We Run It

This is the part most owners underestimate. A furnishing list is easy; coordinating dozens of deliveries with different lead times, then getting everything assembled before your launch date, is the actual project.

- Ordering: we place every order, track lead times, and flag anything with a delivery window that threatens your launch date — large furniture often ships separately from smaller items.
- Receiving: we inspect every delivery for damage before assembly day, not after — catching a damaged item with time to reorder is the difference between a minor delay and a missed launch.
- Scheduling assembly: we coordinate a single assembly contractor visit (or a short sequence of visits) once the bulk of the order has arrived, rather than piecemeal trips that waste labor hours and your time.

Why this matters: A missing or damaged item discovered the week of launch is a scramble. Discovered three weeks out, it's a simple reorder. The entire point of structured receiving is moving every problem as early as possible.

Assembly & Labor: Time and Cost

Assembly is real, billable labor — beds, dressers, dining sets, outdoor furniture, and tech installs all take skilled hands and time. Here's the labor breakdown for the same illustrative 3BR/2BA property.

- Independent owners typically hire labor piecemeal — a furniture-assembly tasker for one visit, a locksmith or electrician for another, a stager for a third — paying a separate trip fee and full hourly rate each time.
- We bundle the same ~28 hours of skilled labor into a single coordinated crew visit (or a short back-to-back sequence), which is both faster and meaningfully cheaper per hour than piecemeal hiring.

Illustrative labor cost: Independent, separately-hired contractors: approximately $2,400 for this property (multiple trip fees + standard hourly rates). Our bundled crew: approximately $1,200 flat for the same scope of work.

The Full Picture: Doing It Yourself vs. Our Managed Service

Most independent STR owners underestimate the true cost of furnishing a property themselves — not just the sticker price of furniture, but the sourcing markup, the piecemeal labor, and the value of their own time.

Category	Independent Owner (DIY)	Our Managed Service
Furnishing sourcing cost	$20,460 (standard retail/designer pricing, no bulk leverage)	$10,559 (value-engineered sourcing)
Assembly & install labor	~$2,400 (separate contractors, multiple trip fees) — or 40+ hours of the owner's own time	~$1,200 (single bundled crew visit)
Staging & styling	Often DIY or skipped — inconsistent, no professional eye	Included — photo-ready guaranteed
Owner's personal time required	45–60 hours (sourcing, receiving, assembling, styling)	2–4 hours (approvals & walkthroughs only)
Typical timeline to launch	4–8 weeks, often longer around the owner's schedule	2–3 weeks, sequenced to your launch date
Risk of mistakes / damage	Higher — damage often discovered late, with no inspection step	Lower — every delivery inspected before assembly day

Adding sourcing and labor together gives the full cost-of-ownership picture for this illustrative property.

Total Cost of Ownership: 3BR/2BA, Sleeps 8

The real comparison: It's not just a 49% cost difference — it's also 40+ hours of the owner's own time back, a faster path to launch, and a professionally staged result on day one instead of a DIY result that may need restyling later.

What We Handle vs. What We Need From You

We handle	We need from you
Full item list & budget proposal	Design preferences, budget range & guest capacity
Placing & tracking all orders	Approval of the final item list before ordering
Receiving, inspection & damage claims	Property access for delivery windows
Scheduling & managing assembly contractor(s)	Sign-off once assembly is complete
Final styling & photo-ready walkthrough	Final review before photos/listing go live

Common Pitfalls We See

- Buying single sets of bedding/towels — same-day turnovers are impossible without a second set on hand.
- Underspending on the mattress — it's the single biggest driver of guest comfort complaints and refund requests.
- Ordering everything at once with no delivery sequencing — leads to a cluttered, undeliverable mess and wasted contractor trips.
- Skipping the damage inspection at receiving — discovering a cracked table leg on assembly day instead of delivery day costs you a week, not a few hours.

- Styling for the photos only — furniture that looks great but doesn't hold up to real guest use creates a maintenance and review problem within months.
